

A MONTH OF LOVE...AND THE GARDEN AND HOME SHOW!*Updates on Lindworks Projects: 2025

I've had a great start to 2025.

With the cold weather, I've focused on indoor work. So far, I finished a bathroom by installing two new windows; I completed a basement project, including new walls, flooring, and lighting.

I built a deck over the few warmer days we had.

Plus, I've been able to help clients with minor house repairs, like fixing a step, repairing a faucet, and installing lighting. I'm happy to help my clients with all their household repairs.

Upcoming projects include a kitchen remodel and remodeling two bathrooms.

Your referrals are my greatest compliment.

Home Maintenance Tip

Have you covered your air conditioner? It's a good idea to cover the unit because of branches, leaves, snow, and ice getting into it and damaging the unit. Waterproof covers can encourage small animals to build homes under them, but a canvas tarp or a piece of plywood across the top should help.

Colorado Garden and Home Show

The Colorado Garden and Home Show will be at the Colorado Convention Center from February 8-16.

This is an event I never miss; I make connections with local tradespeople in hopes of working with them in the future.

It's also a great place to see home remodeling possibilities. From new windows and doors to outdoor living spaces, the Home Show offers a plethora of ideas.

As a homeowner and general contractor, I enjoy attending the show to see new trends that I might want to incorporate in my own home and to keep current for my clients.

You can buy tickets online or at the show.

<https://www.coloradogardenfoundation.org/>

Let me make your vision a reality

Lindworks LLC has been helping homeowners make their visions a reality since 2009. It's my pleasure to help you with small repairs, large repairs, and remodeling entire spaces.

Final Thoughts

February might have you dreaming about your garden and outside spaces. In addition to visiting the Garden and Home Show for outdoor ideas and budget information, it's a good time to think about what you'd like to do to your outdoor space. Is your deck in need of repair or replacement? Would you like a covered patio? Have you wondered about planter boxes? If your outdoor space needs some love, it might be time to think of what you want done and how much to budget for it. As always, you can reach out to me for an estimate.

The greatness of a man is not in how much wealth he acquires, but in his integrity and his ability to affect those around him positively.

Bob Marley

Your greatest compliment is a referral.